I have a code like this var value=0; var animate = function animate() { value+=1; if(value>0){ document.getElementById("display").innerHTML=value; } value=0; requestAnimationFrame(animate); }; requestAnimationFrame(animate); And it works fine. The problem is that it is changing the display only when the page is loaded. I want the display to be updated by the code. So I have modified the code to this var value=0; var animate = function animate() { value+=1; if(value>0){ document.getElementById("display").innerHTML=value; } value=0; requestAnimationFrame(animate); }; requestAnimationFrame(animate); setInterval(animate, 1000); And it works but when I make the change, I have to reload the page. If I don't, I'm getting that the display is empty. I want it to update automatically. The problem

Ethics Beyond High School is a series of short, compact publications that present academic ethics in a variety of practical contexts. Ethics Beyond High School (EbHS) is a series of short, compact publications that present academic ethics in a variety of practical contexts. We develop methods for summarizing and analyzing specific ideas within the context of real world situations. We provide easy-to-follow guidance for dealing with ethical issues and offer important strategies for providing academic support to students and students with disabilities. EbHS applies a real-life example from a student's experience to illustrate an academic issue. This technique helps participants understand ethical dilemmas in a way they can apply to similar situations in the future. Because EbHS is a series of short compact publications, you can easily use it with students in college, university and graduate school, and with students with disabilities. It is also a good adjunct to the college course Ethical Decision Making. A Guide to Academic Integrity includes information on how to keep your papers, notes, class presentations, and course work free of plagiarism. With this guide you will learn what plagiarism is, why students plagiarize, how to avoid it, what sanctions apply, and what students can do if they do plagiarize. You will also learn how to obtain permission to quote from sources, how to cite sources properly, how to search the Web for information, how to incorporate information from other sources into your own work, and how to use a bibliography. You will also learn about academic integrity policy at your institution. The resources included in this guide are written with the student in mind; therefore, we have included such strategies as using non-plagiarized examples in your class, making a point about using quotations in your paper, avoiding the temptation to download information from the Internet. How to Protect Your Research from Plagiarism is a practical guide to good research habits. It discusses issues of author attribution, citing other people's work, intellectual property rights, and several other aspects of protecting your own research. In this guide, you will learn how to avoid plagiarism, how to avoid being a plagiarist, how to avoid plagiarism in your college or university, how to avoid plagiarism in graduate school, and how to avoid plagiarism in a professional setting. Each chapter has case studies from authors' experiences, including actual cases that were brought to the authors' attention. You will find that this guide makes common sense and is very easy to follow. You 1d6a3396d6

A Louisiana attorney was shot to death Saturday afternoon after allegedly pulling a gun on a driver he accused of being aggressive, according to police. Bryan Godbold, 36, of Chalmette, was "shot multiple times" in the chest and upper torso outside of his office at the law firm Godbold Law Firm on Sunset Boulevard just before 2 p.m., Capt. Kevin Webre of the New Orleans Police Department said. "Upon preliminary investigation, the New Orleans Police Department has determined the victim was involved in a verbal altercation with an unidentified male in a private vehicle that was traveling on Sunset Boulevard when the altercation turned physical and the male pulled a weapon and shot the victim multiple times," Webre said. Godbold was rushed to a local hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Webre said detectives are looking into the incident, which remains under investigation. The driver and victim were not known to each other. The shooter was still at-large as of Saturday night. Godbold was known locally as a criminal defense attorney who represented NOPD Officer Christopher Thomas Jr., who was convicted of second-degree murder in a 2012 shooting death of Eric Garner. He also defended NOPD Officer Phillip Crain, who was acquitted of second-degree murder in a 2012 shooting death of Sean Hesse.
