He was a clergyman in Ireland, and a Baptist missionary in India. Biography He was born in Spain and arrived in Trinidad as a young man, where he was apprenticed as a shoemaker. His interest in religion and preaching was fostered by a Jewish family. On his release he set out for England, and in 1796 was ordained in Glasgow. During the early years of his ministry he was assistant pastor of several churches in England, including the Church of St George, Bristol, and the Church of St Mary, Strand. He also was employed on several missions in the industrial towns of England, and in Scotland. In 1800, he was made Principal of the Baptist College in Edinburgh, which was to be the training ground for Baptist missionaries in India. He returned to Calcutta with two Indian Baptist missionaries and founded a mission in Kutch. Casley returned to England in 1812, and was appointed Chaplain of the University of Oxford, which he left in 1818 to become Principal of the Slade School of Art. He was ordained as an honorary deacon in 1834, which brought with it an income of £100 a year. He returned to England in 1845 as tutor to a family, and in 1849 he took over the reins of Presidency of the Coloured Baptist Mission at Bristol. He died of pneumonia on 16 March 1851, and was buried in the consecrated ground of Bristol Baptist College. Personal life Casley had married, in 1792, Eliza Hogg (1773-1845), daughter of J. H. Hogg (1736-1808), Dissenting minister in London.
