Inkjet printing machines are generally used to print on substrates/media such as paper, and include, but are not limited to, inkjet printers, inkjet plotters, facsimile machines, wordprocessors, and copiers, as well as mobile devices such as personal digital assistants (PDAs), multi-function devices, cellular phones, combinations thereof, and the like. In the case of inkjet printers, printing devices include print cartridges (one or more) or "plugs" that typically include: one or more print heads, each including multiple nozzles (e.g., numbering 80 nozzles); one or more ink tanks or reservoirs that are positioned relative to the print head or heads; and drive means such as an electromagnetic actuator, a piezoelectric actuator, etc. Typically, the ink is supplied from the ink tanks to the nozzles using a disposable inkjet printing cartridge, which is only used once before the need to replace it. But this is a game that I have played for the past few years at various levels of expertise. If you ever read this, please know that a positive change is coming. Love. My Own Opinion: This week I'm going to talk a little bit about mods that can make your time playing EQ much more enjoyable. This is more for people looking for new content or to make their games a bit more enjoyable. This list will serve as a solid foundation for further mods you could try and enjoy. The first mod should be the obvious one, and that's getting onto a PvP server. At this time, the only way to get onto a PvP server in the game was to start on one. This is fine and dandy, as I do prefer PvP servers to server myself. However, some people do not and finding a PvP server is difficult and isn't a simple matter of clicking a button. If this is your case, then the first mod I would recommend would be just making one of your chars into a PvP char. This can be done by right clicking on your char, and doing the following: " PvP Settings " then choose " PvP Server ". This will create a new server for that char and your friends on the server can get into PvP. This will also be helpful for making friends. You can also choose "New Game" if you want to start a new game. In any case, you can also get onto a PvP server by doing the following in the Options window: This would give you the option to make your char into a PvP char. Otherwise, if you don't want to start a new game, you can simply start playing, go into PvP, and choose your next move. This will be a good place to test out moves, PvE or PvP. However, there is an even better way to get onto a PvP server. There is a way to change your character's appearance that can help you make a good impression, the way you will be viewed by people, and this is called your costume. There are 4 different types of costumes, that are: Warrior, Priest, Hunter and Rogue. A warrior wears armor, a android custom ListView listener not firing So I have implemented a custom adapter for a listview in my app but for some reason the onNothingSelected event is not being fired. The onItemSelected event is firing, so I know there is still an entry for the listview. I have messed around with it for hours and for some reason I cannot get this to work. I don't know why I would get an onItemClick event for these items when they aren't even on the list, so I'm confused. Added from comments: Here is the getView(): public View getView(int position, View convertView, ViewGroup parent) { View view; TextView textView1; EditText editText; TextView textView2; TextView textView3; if (convertView == null) { LayoutInflater inflater = (LayoutInflater) mContext.getSystemService(Context.LAYOUT_INFLATER_SERVICE); view = inflater.inflate(R.layout
