I am following this tutorial ( I am stuck in this step ( The successful HTTP response is a status code of 200 which indicates the uploading process was successful. Since the response includes a Content-Length header, we know that the upload succeeded and the server is providing the correct file size. We would like to raise a FileTransferError exception to indicate a possible error. For example, if the file is too large, the response could indicate the file size exceeded the permitted size. How can I check if the file is an image and not another file? I use this code for check the file type.
