Free Download Subkey Software City Interactive Sniper 2 Starter22.rar.Q: Formatting the HTML of a column in a SQL Server Management Studio View as HTML I need to format a column of a view as HTML, in order to update the column with the results of an MD5 hash of a string. I've read that I should do this by setting a new column as TEXT, then creating a new view with the column as VARCHAR(20), then renaming the original view to the name of the new view. Is this the best way to do this? I want to avoid modifying the original table if I can. A: Yes, it's a good way to go, unless the existing table is huge (in which case a database restart will be needed anyway). What's the remaining issue? The script to update the existing view to the new format should be rather simple, but you'll have to post it here for us to see. HTH, Mark Q: wordpress "unable to find media file" on live server I have a brand new web application currently running on WordPress 4.1, the dev has uploaded all the files using FTP. We have media uploaded to the main theme directory. When I navigate to the page containing the image file (took all the files from the dev's computer for me to check, did not download them locally) I get this error: [17-Apr-2012 13:23:58 UTC] PHP Warning: load_plugin_textdomain(): Unable to find the phpWordPress translations in '/home 6d1f23a050
